INDUSTRY MATTERS

Information, insights, and advice for ACS industry members

August 27, 2020

In this week's On the Safe Side, one of our safety experts, Ken Fivizzani, talks about the role of 'housekeeping' as part of any lab safety audit. He provides over 25 different suggestions for improving the general condition of your laboratory. Do any of them resonate?

Do you know what early career chemists value? DuPont's Matt Grandbois does, and he has some important takes on this topic that he wants to share with industry managers and leaders. Taking it from the opposite approach, he also has some insights for early career chemists from the perspective of industry management. Matt talks about the outsized influence his parents have on his leadership style, and as a musician, he makes four picks for his musicians' Mt. Rushmore.

Last but not least, three ACS Career Consultants have some advice on a timely subject: How to manage workplace stress and anxiety.
